MANY MISSOURI EDITORS AT JEFFERSON CLUB BANQUET.

Completion of Democratic State Organization Is Celebrated in a Fitting Manner-Members Discuss Issues of the Campaign-Humorous Remarks by Chairman R. M. White.

of Missouri. The guests were in a happy frame of mind, because of the success which had attended the organization of the association, and the evening was marked with goodfellowship and sociability.

The speeches were replete with wit and shrewd observations. There was no effort made by any speaker to talk on party issues or dwell on national or State politics. Members of the association, who respond-ed, talked of the objects of the organization and the benefits which would accrue to the emocratic party in Missouri.

The large assembly hall of the Jefferson Club in which the braquet was served was tastefully decorated. The walls and celling were hung with flags and streamers. A wall of potted plents and ferns extended along the front of the stage, behind which the front cover was a picture of Thomas Jefferson and sketches representing scenes in a modern newspaper office. On the left of Jefferson's portrait was a picture of a primitive hand press and on the right a cut of the big presses now in common use in large newspaper plants. The back cover represented the front page of a fictitious newspaper, "The Jeffersonian." The articles in this told of happenings in the Demoeratic party of Missouri. A plan is being considered by members of the Jefferson Club to start such a publication.

Prior to sitting down at the table, an informal reception was hold in the parlors of the club. At this the editors were given an opportunity of meeting members of the association with whom they were not ac-

R. M. White, president of the association, occupied the center seat, sharing the post of honor with Harry B. Hawes, president of the Jefferson Club. Mr. White was toast-master of the occasion.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT HAWES.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT HAWES.

President Hawes made a brief address of welcome, extolling the wealth of intellect represented in the assembled guests and declaring that the welfare of the State and the future of the Democratic party lay in their hands. He spoke of the State issues which would be paramount in the coming campaign, called attention to the misrepresentations of the Republican press, and urged upon his hearers the value of united action in combating the arguments to be presented to the voters of the State through the medium of the Republican press.

After extending to the assembled guests a hearty welcome on behalf of the dity and the Democracy, through the Jefferson Club, Mr. Hawes introduced Mr. R. M. White, toastmaster. Mr. White is the editor of the Mr. White made a hit with a very brief address, in which he declared that the only way in which he could hope to emulate his predecessor, Mr. Hawes, was at the banquet table, as he could never hope to equal him in oratorical or political ability. Mr. White made another distinct hit when he suggested that as there were many speakers whom the guests wished to hear, the speches be limited to a minute and a half "or thereabouts." Some of the speakers observed this suggestion closely, but one er two transgressed the limit.

CHAMP CLARKS VIEWS.

CHAMP CLARK'S VIEWS.

Congressman Champ Clark, one of the two guests not a member of the association, followed. He spoke of national issues, and his remarks were loudly applauded.

In the course of his remarks he touched on State issues, also, and said: "A man that cannot defend any and every issue relating to the finances of Missouri since Missouri was blessed with a Democratio Governor is a stark idiot."

"We will win in this campaign," he said, "despite the array of falsehood that has been published about this State and its finances in a partisan press. The record of Democracy since the first Governor was elected to the present day is a record of giory and glorification for the party."

Steaking of national issues, he said that paramount in the coming campaign would be "tariff and the trusts," and the Democratic party's attitude on that question was so well known that it was bound to win.

C. H. Fauntieroy of the Jefferson Club was next introduced, and spoke on the Nesbit law, comparing it with previous election laws, and pointing out the fallacies in the criticisms of those who denounce it.

W. O. L. Jewett of the Shebina Democrat followed. He spoke of the benefit of the State.

William Marion Reedy, editor of the Mirror, made a brief speech in which he con-

The dinner to the Democratic editors of Missouri, given by the Jefferson Club at its clubhouse, Grand and Lindell avenues, last night, was one of the most successful and pleasant entertainments ever given under the auspices of the local Democratic organization.

By all who attended, the banquet was pronounced a fitting finale to a day fraught with importance to the Democratic party, with importance to the Democratic party, as represented by the newspaper makers

He said the association should meet at Heast twice in the course of each campaign year. He expressed sentiments of praise of the organization and work being accomplished by the Jefferson Cub.

Thomas J. Lingle of Clinton, in responding, said that his country (Southwest Missouri) was famed for its fertile soil, in which Democracy, like fine crope, would always flourish. He spoke in praise of the Democratic statesmen of Missouri and gave it as his belief that the Democratic pross of the State would always be found ready and willing to back them up. He agreed with previous speakers in being well pleased with the success attending the organization of the Democratic editors.

A resolution thanking the Jefferson Club and Harry E. Hawes for the hespitality extended the association was offered by H. E. Waters of New Madrid, and unanimously adopted.

B. Baskett of Mexico said that he believed the Democratis of the State would not an the period of the success attending the organization of the contrasted the splendid attendance at the initial meeting of the association, with indifferent results attending a recent effort on the part of the Republican editors of Missouri to form a permanent association. The last speaker of the evening was J. R. Lowell of Moberly, Mr. Lowell said that the beart of the Republican editors of Missouri to form a permanent association. The last speaker of the evening was J. R. Lowell of Moberly, Mr. Lowell said that the association could exist without being tied to men. It should follow principles, he said, and support the nominees of the party. He emphasized the importance of independence.

conductors and trainmen to obtain magnetic wages:

"The different stories pertaining to a movement on the part of conductors and trainmen in the Western country for a raise of wages are, in the main, inaccurate and misleading. They probably grow out of the fact that an association of the committees of the Order of Railway Conductors and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for this territory was formed at Kanass City in June, at which time the question of increases of pay for men is train and yard service was discussed.

"It is the general belief among the men in these supacities that, on escount of the vastly changed conditions now as compared with those in existence at the time the present wage standards were made, they are entitled to some additional compensation, and they are now considering the propriety of asking for it. But, if anything is done through these organizations in this direction, it will be along orderly lines and in accordance with the long-established policies and laws of the bodies affected."

"Strike Talk Is Unwarranted." Cedar Rapids, Ia., Sept. Iš.—E. E. Clark, grand chief of the Order of Railway Conductors, to-day confirmed the statement that employes of all railroads in the West will make a united demand for increased wages. He, however, declared the present talk of a widespread strike to be 'uniwarranted sensationalism."

"No strike will occur," said Mr. Clark, 'until all other means have been exhausted, and then only on a two-thirds vote of those interested."

Warrensburg, Mo., Sept. 15.—A. L. Pemberton, a prominent young business man of this city, has sued John Thiele, a shoe dealer of Warrensburg, for $5,000.

Some time ago the two engaged in an encounter, in which Pemberton lost a part of his ear. He alleges it was bitten off and gives that as the ground for the present suit.

MARSHALL P. WILDER AGAIN AMUSES AT THE COLUMBIA.

Marshall P. Wilder is saying funny things at the Columbia in his own decisive way. Once under the spell of his personality, the audience is quick to appreciate every quip he projects. The delectable humor has borne the praise of a good many years, but doesn't seem to age. His old following is ever ready to welcome him. Lew Hawkins is back again with a new minstrel mono-logue and the usual budget of topical songs. Matt Ott and Company offer the farcical jumble, "Heinz in a Pickle." Gracie Em-mett, assisted by Ben Miles, Frances Gray and Roy Winter, revives her comedy, "Mrs. Murphy's Second Husband." Miss Emmett's Honora Murphy is mildly satisfactory. It shows that she could do better if she had the material. Winona and Banks Winter appear in "The Disappointed Romeo." Mme. Emmy's trained pets are not at all bad. They behave exceptionally well-so well that the act proceeds with-out a hitch. Jack Burch is the magician of the week. Flo Adler sings. The Linns give a travesty. Steve Jennings, planist; Mile. Mr. Fish is now at Roosevelt Hospital, suffering from a broken skull. In the hope of wring his life, an operation was performed to-night, but his chances of recovery are slight.

Mr. Fish left his office in the National Park Bank building this afternoon, and, in company with a man and three women, entered a beer hall at No. 356 West Thirty-fourth street. A dispute arose, and, after leaving the place, the man in the party assaulted Mr. Fish and threw him into an areaway. The fail resulted in a tracture of the skull. The women and assailant fied.

Mr. Fish is a member of one of the oldest New York families. He is a brother of Stuyresant Fish, and his son, Hamilton Fish, Jr., was one of the first to fall in the Bpanish-American War. He was United States Minister to Belgium from 1822 to 1884. REPUBLIC SPECIAL.
